Heart of the Hero

The Remarkable Women who Inspired the Great Polar Explorers

Thursday 28th February
2013 7pm

Heart of the Hero gives a compelling insight into the lives of some of the world's most admired explorers through the eyes of the remarkable women who inspired them. Kari Herbert draws on her own unique experiences and includes her pioneering mother in the women she profiles here. Using extracts from previously unpublished journals and letters, she blends deeply personal accounts of longing, betrayal and hope with tales of peril and adventure.

Kari is the daughter of the explorer Sir Wally Herbert who was the only artist to have painted the Polar World in all four seasons of the year. As a small child, Kari lived with her parents on a remote island off northwest Greenland and is also the author of The Explorer's Daughter.
